THE KINDOFAIRY

Raghu was a very poor boy. He lived with his mother. His mother worked in some houses and earned money.

One day, his mother fell ill. Raghu had nothing to eat. There was no money to buy medicine for his mother. He sat under a tree and started crying.

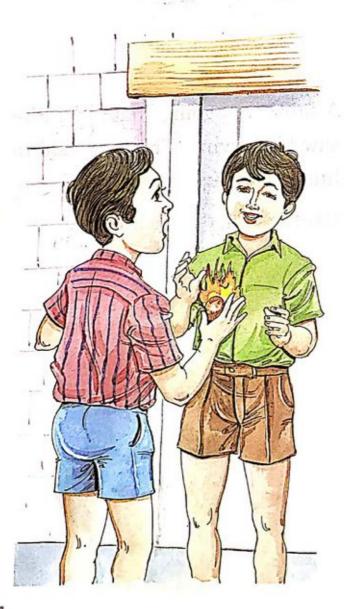

The fairy took Raghu to a small hill. There were many shining stones on that hill. The fairy gave one shining stone to Raghu, "Rub the stone anywhere and say what you want."

A fairy was going that way. She saw him crying. The fairy said to him, "Why are you crying?"
Raghu said, "I am hungry."

Raghu came back home. He rubbed the stone and said, "I want food." Soon there was food in many plates. Raghu and his mother ate food. After that Raghu rubbed the stone and said, "We want a new house." Soon they were in a beautiful house. Raghu got many things. He became rich.

Ratan was his neighbour. He came to know about the shining stone. One day, he came and took away the shining stone.

Ratan rubbed the stone. Soon his fingers started burning. He tried to throw away the stone. The stone did not move away from his hand. He ran to Raghu's house and said, "I am very sorry, I took away your shining stone. Please take it back."

Raghu took the stone back. Ratan's fingers stopped burning. He never stole anything after that.
